

Lee Aaker (b. 1943)

---

Confirmed Authentic Exemplars

A handwritten note in cursive script that reads "Go Joe from Lee Aaker Rusty". The ink is dark and the handwriting is fluid and personal.

Signature in fountain pen (c. 1955)
Courtesy of Jerome Shochet

A printed signature in black marker that reads "Good Luck Lee AAKER Rusty Print in tin". The signature is blocky and lacks the fluidity of a handwritten signature.

Printed signature in marker (1984)

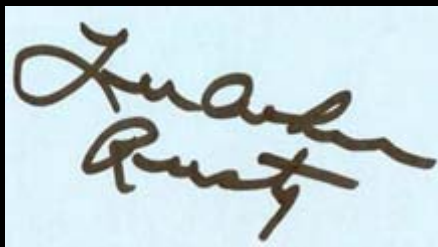

A handwritten signature in blue marker that reads "Lee Aaker Rusty + Print in tin". The signature is more fluid than the printed version but still shows some stiffness.

Signature in marker (1990)

A handwritten signature in black marker that reads "Best signature Lee Aaker Rusty 94". The signature is very fluid and appears to be a more recent and authentic version.

Signature in marker (1994)

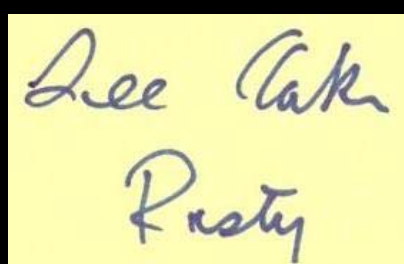

A handwritten signature in black marker that reads "Lee Aaker Rusty". The signature is very fluid and appears to be a more recent and authentic version.

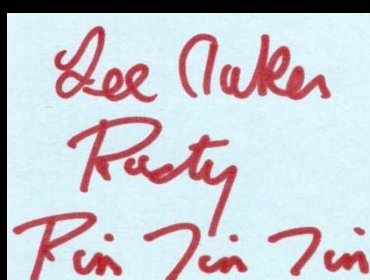

Signature in marker (c. 1999)
Courtesy of Joe Kraus of Celebrity Galleries

---

Secretarial Exemplars & Confirmed Forgeries

A handwritten signature in black ink on a yellow background that reads "Lee Aaker Rusty". The signature is very fluid and appears to be a more recent and authentic version.

A handwritten signature in red ink on a white background that reads "Lee Aaker Rusty Print in tin". The signature is very fluid and appears to be a more recent and authentic version.

Signatures by a forger who publicly posed as Lee Aaker for several years (c. 1992)
Courtesy of Joe Kraus of Celebrity Galleries